Alternate Format Digital File Agreement

As a qualified person to receive digital/audio files, you are legally responsible and bound by copyright laws. Any electronic file provided to you by the Quincy College Disability Services Office is for your personal use only and may not be share, copied or distributed to anyone else. Once you sell your copy of the book, the electronic file associated with the book, should also be destroyed.

- Please use the digital/audio files provided for your own personal research/study use only, not for shared access.
- Should any of your colleagues who are visually impaired or have any disabilities which prevent them from accessing a print copy require this material, please ask them to contact the Quincy College Disability Services Office directly for alternative electronic formats.
- Do not distribute the digital/audio files via any means, whether electronic or print.
- Do not use the digital/audio files for any monetary gain or for any commercial purpose; do not sell the files.
- Do not print/copy the digital/audio files for any purpose other than for your own personal research or study.
- Do not post the digital/audio files on any website including cloud-based services.
- Do not license the digital/audio files for any purpose.
- Should you require using the digital/audio files of this title for any use other than your own personal research or study use, please contact the publisher for permission.

Due to academic integrity issues and the possibility that some of the materials may be under copyright, I agree to abide by the terms of this Agreement as a condition for receiving course materials. If I received digital/audio files in a disk format, I agree to return the disk to the DSO at the end of the semester. If I received the digital/audio files in electronic format, I agree to destroy them at the end of the semester. I understand that a violation of this Agreement may subject me to discipline under the Student Code of Conduct and/or subject me to liability under copyright laws.
